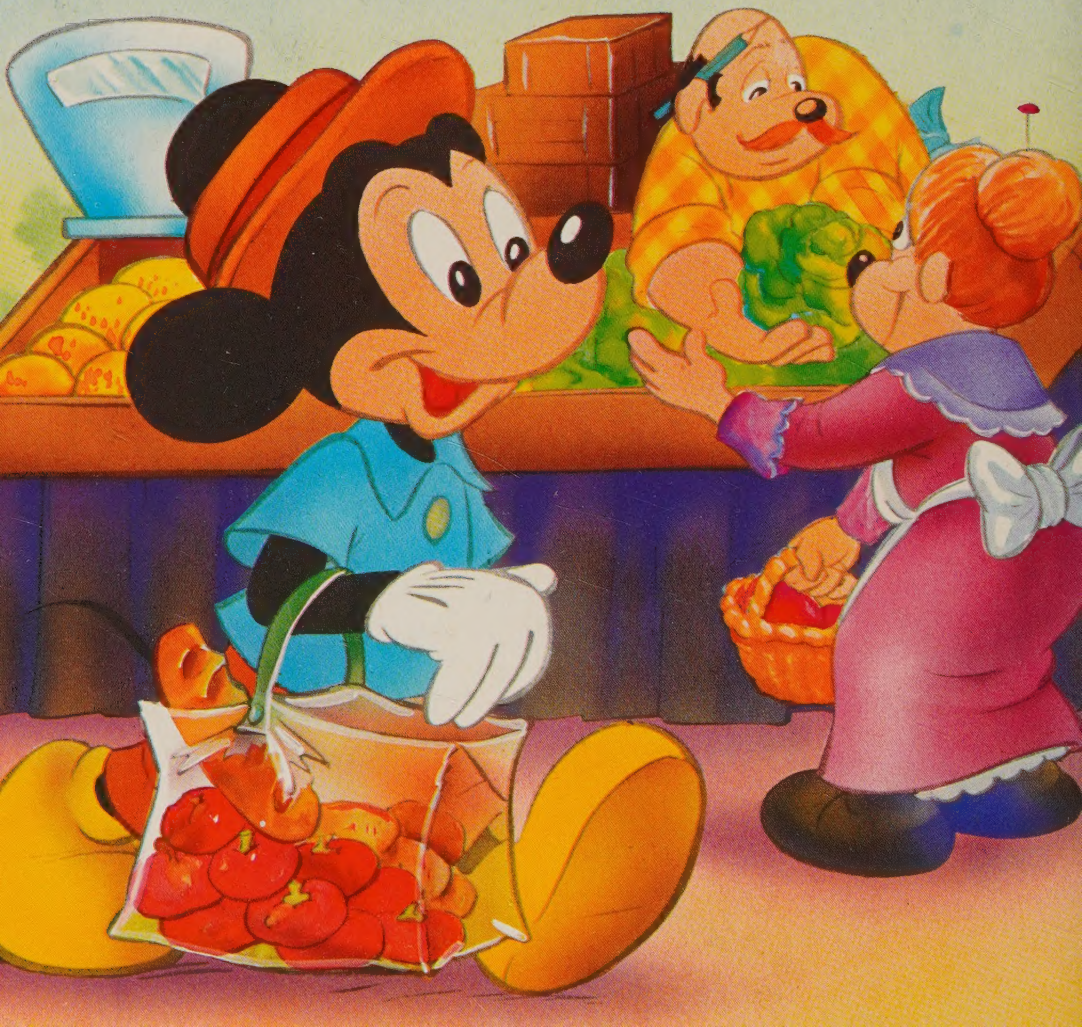
FLEETWAY BOOKS

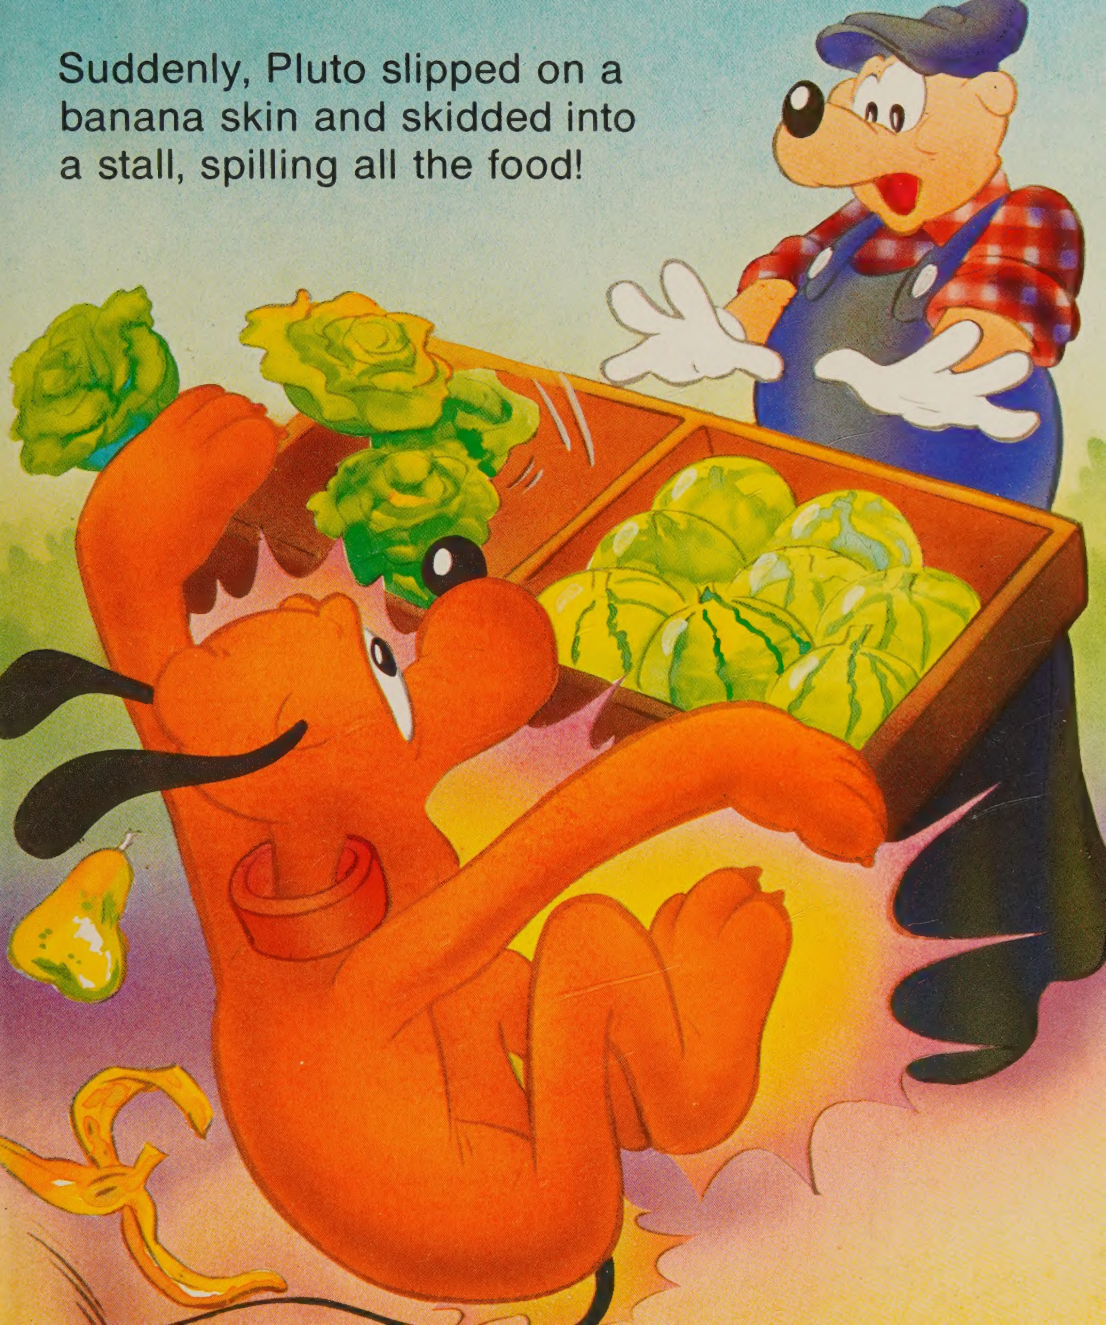
Disney's

Mickey's Shopping Trip

Mickey took Pluto shopping, one day. "I'll buy some more vegetables. Then we can go home," Mickey called to Pluto.



Suddenly, Pluto slipped on a banana skin and skidded into a stall, spilling all the food!



"Now look what you've done!" scolded Mickey. Pluto did feel silly as he sat with a lettuce on top of his head!

Of course, Mickey paid for all the food that Pluto had spoilt. "Don't worry, I needed these things," smiled Mickey.

Back home, Pluto watched as Mickey put the food he had bought into a saucepan.

Clever Mickey soon made a delicious home-made soup! "There's enough for second helpings, too!" he told Pluto.

In the same series:

Winnie the Pooh and the Magic Dance
Winnie the Pooh and the Carrots
Winnie the Pooh and the Treasure

Minnie's New Hat
Mickey's Shopping Trip
Mickey Goes Fishing

Copyright © 1988 the Walt Disney Company
Published 1988 by Fleetway Books, Irwin House
118 Southwark Street, London SE1 OSW, a division of Maxwell Pergamon Publishing Corporation plc

Printed in Germany. Distributed by WHS Distributors.

£ 1.25

KO-540-413

ISBN 1-85[illegible]-6

9 781853 860812